Annual Report of the Operations of the Institution.

FACILITIES FOR TREATMENT

rectors Tells of the Increased Popularity of the Institution-Dr Swan M. Burnett Gives Statistics of Cases Treated-Other Reports.

The annual report of the Emergency Hospital was submitted yesterday through W. J. Boardman, the president of the board of directors of the institution, to Herbert W. Lewis, the District superintendent of charities. The document is a voluminous one, containing about forty pages, and gives in detail the workings of the hospital during the fiscal year ending June 39 last.

In submitting the report President Boardman says, in part:

"Probably in no one of the preceding years of this institution has the purpose of its organization been more satisfac torily accomplished than during the last year. The perfect harmony and co-operation in, as well as the eminent skill and mithful labors of the staff have greatly enhanced its popularity. It is only to be Monday is Atonement Day, and in the enhanced its popularity. It is only to be regretted that its cramped facilities incapacitate it for meeting all the demands made upon it, resulting from this growth "To meet the current expenses of the hospital and to make necessary repairs the board of trustees respectfully pray for an appropriation of $17,000 for the ensuing year.

President Boardman also transmitted with his report copies of the annual re-ports of Dr. Swan M. Burnett, the president of the attending staff, and Hon. John B. Wright, the treasurer of the hos-pital, and Miss Eva Simonton, the superintendent, giving an idea of the work performed and the relief rendered during the year.

The report of Dr. Burnett is in part as entered in the dispensaries, with an aggregate of 28,759 visits. In the emergency th both departments were 2,120 operations, of which 1,777 were performed in the emergency department. There were 158 patients admitted in the wards of the hos-pital of whom forty-one died. There were 579 ambulance calls and 56,196 prescrip-tions compounded. There was a slight rigid enforcement of the rule requiring a certificate from applicants showing an inability to pay for medical attendance and medicine. This rule has been found to act beneficially, largely through its moral effect, in keeping a number of un-deserving from partaking of that which is intended only for the worthy poor, but it has also had the effect of depriving some of the deserving poor of the benefit destroyed for them, through their trandesigned for them, through their ignorance of or inability to conform with the rules or through shame of so publicly proclaiming themselves as paupers. The exercise of good sense will, in time, en-able us to eliminate the latter and the advantages of the system will be more fully realized. The Associated Charities has heartily supported us in our en-deavors to check the abuse of medical charity. At great expense of labor and time 1,65 applicants were examined. "The need of more room for the work of the dispensary and emergency departments, brought to your attention in the last report, is in a fair way of being met now by the appropriation of $2,000 for improvements by the last Congress and a generous gift by Mrs. Phebe A. Hearst, of the building on the northeast corner of Fifteenth and E Streets, which is now being fitted up at her expense as a nurses' home, with accommodations for a number of employes, freeing the present hospital from all occupants except the sick, the resident physicians and the superintendent. On this same lot is being e-ceted at Mrs. Hearst's expense a new building for the accommodation of the ambulance. Work on these structures is in progress, and it is hoped that they will be ready for use by Thanksgiving. Plans have been prepared for the construction of two ad-ditional service rooms for the dispensary and an enlargement of the drug room on the north side of the dispensary waiting room. Work will begin as soon as the ap-propriation for improvements is available.

propriation for improvements is available.

"The Ladles' Auxiliary will undertake a thorough refitting of the operating room. When these improvements have been completed and the emergency room enlarged and remodeled in accordance with plans now under advisement, we believe that there will be no institution in the country better equipped. At the beginning of the year Drs. Turner, Bahr, and Juenemann were serving as resistant. and Juenemann were serving as residents. These have been succeeded in a regular order by Dr. James D. Fife, now resident; Dr. M. W. Glover, senior assistant, and Dr. F. H. Morhart. All these gentlemen deserve our thanks for their good work."

The report of Miss Simonton, the superintendent of the hospital, reads in part

The report of Miss Simonton, the superintendent of the hospital, reads in part as follows:

"One of the hindrances to a more successful administration of the hospital work from which we have suffered in the past is now soon to be overcome by the removal of the nurses and some of the employes from the hospital building to the commodious and attractive nurses home now being prepared through the generosity of Mrs. Hearst.

"Some months ago the attending staff, after a thorough discussion of the matter, decided to join forces with the Washington Asylum Hospital under charter of the Washington Training School for Nurses in the establishment of a training school which it is hoped will in time furnish good and efficient nurses for both hospitals."

The report of the treasurer, Commissioner Wight, gives the following statement of the condition of the finances of the dispensary and hospital during the year:

The constable stated that he had come to serve a replevin writ sworn out by Mrs. Fields and take possession of some pictures, which she claimed and which she said were in the house.

"Mrs. Fields, indeed," exclaimed Mrs. Fields No. 2, "why, that woman is not Mrs. Fields, I am Tom Fields's wife."

When she was ordered to deliver up the paintings Mrs. Fields said the constable could have them, but he could not have the frames, for they at least did not belong to Wilhelmina Von Oisen.

The constable finally got possession of all the paintings which Wilhelmina Von Oisen identified as hers and carried them away with him. In the replevin suit for the paintings Thomas W. Stewart is surely in the sum of $200.
